TEAGAN'S TRIBE: Friendships blossom during camp

Discover how your donations led to these meaningful friendships.

Have you ever wondered what it takes to slow down and smile? Life travels faster than fast. Moment by moment most people miss out on choosing joy. Every year, camp changes this for me. At camp, I see kids being kids, adults being kids and friends becoming friends. Smiles abound as we all slow down and choose joy.

As you look through this report, I hope you see the smiles and friendships you made possible. I hope you cherish the friendships you see that are stronger than strong. And I hope you catch a glimpse of the life transformation that takes place inside camp and lasts throughout the year. These relationships you make possible are super. And as one of our camp skit cast members says, "These friendships are super than soup!"

Thank you for making this camp season a huge success! You, my friends, are simply super than soup!

Choosing to smile with you,

Brett Fischer

P.S. You, our generous donors, helped exceed our match grant challenge leading up to camp!

Teagan's Tribe: Friendships Blossom During Camp

Smiles abounded for Teagan, a Victory Kid, during her first summer camp experience. And it seemed her smiles were contagious, especially for her new friend Raegan.

Raegan has served as a Partner Kid for almost every Victory Lane summer camp session. This year, Raegan experienced camp through Teagan's fresh eyes and found a new passion for serving.

"Teagan is really funny and artistic, and we had a lot of fun together," Raegan shared. "It was great to see her connect and play with everyone."

Teagan's dad, Rusty, enjoyed watching his daughter connect with Raegan and the other kids.

"Raegan and the other teens interacted well together with Teagan, and everybody genuinely understood each other." Rusty noted. "For our family, Victory Lane nailed it."

Your gift made these friendships happen. Thank you!

Kenny and Friends Connect through Camp!

Throughout camp, Kenny, a Victory Kid, was surrounded by engaged and loving teens. The teens had been trained to help Kenny get the most out of his camp experience. Kenny's new friends helped him explore the playground. Together they climbed the stairs and returned safely.

"Kenny loved being with new people and spending time swimming," Kenny's dad Andy shared.

"He had a good time, and I appreciated being with people who understand us."

Kenny and Andy look forward to being part of the Victory Lane community in the months ahead!

Company Explores Service Opportunities

Originally known for building bridges, Indiana Bridge provides premium structural steel fabrication today. When Indiana Bridge representatives visited a camp session this summer, they discovered that their support was creating relational bridges through Victory Lane.

Indiana Bridge Plant Manager Brent Smith and General Manager Brad DeBruler attended camp to explore service opportunities for their company. Four additional members participated in activities and connected with camp participants.

By taking time out of their workday to spend time at camp, this Muncie-based company identified ways to build camaraderie through serving together.
